

Stephen & Michelle Volante and Family

Jonathan, Rosanna, Samantha, Samuel, Christina, Angela

Jon is in his second year at PCC studying broadcasting. Rose is in MA with Grandparents in her senior year of high school. Samantha is in Africa in the 10th grade. Samuel is in 2nd grade, and Christina is in Kindergarten. Angela is just hanging out wherever she can.

Having visited almost all our supporting churches in New England in the later half 2006, we relocated to Stockbridge, GA. We chose the Atlanta area because of a warm invitation from Roy Mack the pastor of Pinecrest Baptist Church. This move allowed our family to stay together while Michelle fully recovered from an emergency C-section with Angela. During this time our older girls were able to attend a Christian high school while Michelle home schooled the younger ones.

I traveled alone on most weekends to report to our supporting churches in the south and mid-west, but the rest of our family worshiped at Pinecrest Baptist Church. I also made several trips back to Ghana in order to encourage the work, be a part of our Easter celebration, and to welcome the Triano family to Ghana.

This summer we enjoyed spending time together as a family before our family was divided in three directions. In August, as we returned to Ghana we said good-bye to Jon, Rose, our families, and our friends. Now that we are back in Ghana we are all readjusting to life here. This means no more wireless anything, no more broadband connections, and no more shopping malls, Walmarts, Dunkin Donuts, or Outbacks. Now we enjoy constant power outages, frequent water shortages, and full time four wheel drive! (just kidden ya'll)

We are so happy to be back in Ghana with many of our dear African friends and co-workers. Since we have returned we have seen God's mighty hand of protection, provision, and power meet our every need. Thank you so much for counting us worthy to represent you here in Ghana.
